Ex-Mayor Brown, of St. Louis, is after Captain Eads, of jetty fame, with a point-ed stick. He charges that the Captain tried to bribe him, personally and officially, with an offer of $5,000 in jetty stock. The Cap-tain is an elderly gentleman, but a very in-nocent one. He should have made the offer in cash. There would have been no talk that the novelty of his peculiar record has worn off. A few Molly Magnires may greet him, and General BEN BUTLER may receive him with open arms; but that will be all.

It seems that ALEX STEPHERS' carriage horses are not milk-white steeds, after all. They are flea-bitten—that is to say, spotted all over with rusty red, brown, and black splatches. They serve his purpose in hic present campaign just as well as though they were white, and at the same time symbolize his progress as an intrigue-bespattered politician. SENATOR CONKLING preserves a dignified silence regarding the custom-house removals, which, under the circumstances, is comthe Opposition. Nothing would more de-light the enemies of the Republican party than a continuous and open war of a per-sonal character between Mr. CONKLING and the President. He can afford to keep quiet however, for his battle is being fought no only by the Republican, but, by the Demo cratic, press of the entire country.

In view of the fact that a vacancy may soon occur in the membership of the Su-preme Court of the District of Columbia the Stor calls upon the Territory of Aliska and other distant localities to be on the alert. It is hardly probable, however, that the President will go so far as Alaska to find a judge for us. There are a few citisens of Ohio left-most of them waiting in Washington—who have not been appointed to office, all of whom are capable, in the estimation of our civil-service reform, home rule administration of filling the expected vacancy.

THE announcement is going the rounds all means they should "Go West." m that the friends of MARTIN F CONWAY have locked him up in a mad-house to keep him out of Congress. This our Democratic morning cotemporary. So true is this that he boils over in gushing mmending it to the same public. Under the circumstances the press of the country should " let up " on him. It is neither ger funny to ridicule such a helplessly-afflicted fellow-being.

Some of the Dolefuls begin to predict that the Nationals will hold the balance o power in the next House. THE New York Tribuse admits the viola tion of the civil-service rules in the New York custom-house removals, and then it goes on to say, practically, that if the Stalwarts do not make too much disturbance over the matter the Republican party in New York will be the gainer. In other words, the injured parties in this case are expected or advised to kiss the hand that smites them, or there will be trouble in the camp. We are inclined to the belief that this advice will not be meekly followed. This "turning the other cheek also" is all very well in theory, but it gets to be mois involutary that it is cheeky, so to speak on the part of the Administration to keep up the practice. AFTER all the flurry following from the xposure of Minister DEICHNAN's mis-loings, he is to be retained in office, and allowed to sail for his post of duty without being subjected to an official investigation. This would be considered a somewhat remarkable thing if it were not for the fact that DEICHMAN is a civil-service reformer of the purest—or filthiest—water. It is known that he prepared and submitted to the President a draft of a message to Con-gress on civil-service reform, and that he has otherwise made himself familiarly useful at the Executive Mansien. COMMUNISM AND THE NATIONALS.

"Kearneyism," as it is called on the Pa-cific slope, is not such a frightful bug-bear after all. It was strong in San Francisco and weak in the rural districts. Like the labor riots of the Fast, and Communism the world over, it thrives only in the thicklysettled communities, where poverty, crime, and ignorance are brought into immediate contact with wealth, extravagance, and the to the contact with wealth, extravagance, and the tyranny of capital. In the country, where capital and labor go hand in hand, and in presperous communities, where the equalities of life exist, an even and peaceful tenor of society is preserved. But, after all, this development contains no element of permanence. In the first place, it is vague in its declaration of principles, the only object it seeks being manifestly the gratification of personal wants and physical needs, and it has no basis of solid and progressive merit beyond those wants and needs. It assumes too much, for it declares that the wealth of the country is the aggregation of robbety, and that all office-holders are thieves. This assumption is so violent and so repugnant to the better instincts of mankind that it finds only a casual response, except among the vicious, the idle, and the scheming demagogues But it is an assumption for the existence of which the Democracy, and particularly the Opposition press of the country, is in agreat measure responsible. It found its origin in the unreasonable and untruthful assaults of those agencies upon Republican legislation and administration. The land has been deluged for years with these slanderous assaults, and in turn the Republeans have not been guiltless of adding to the general distrust by rejoining in kind. It has, therefore, become popular, even among those who are now loudest in denunciation of Kearneyism or Communism, to characterize both of the prominent political parties of the development of the prominent political parties of the desired and provided the property of General Twiggs, but which were sent by General Butler to President Lincola and administration. The land has been deluged for years with these slanderous assaults, and in turn the Republicans have not been guiltless of adding to the general distrust by rejoining in kind. It has, therefore, become popular, even among those who are now loudest in denunciation of Kearneyism or Communism, to characterize both of the prominent political tyranny of capital. In the country, where capital and labor go hand in hand, and in terize both of the prominent political parties of the day as corrupt and incompetent. These denunciations, supported, as we have said, by the personal wants and physical needs of the disquiet element of our citizenship, have given birth not only to the movement of which this ignorant and un-lettered KEARNEY was the front, but also to the National party. Very naturally, con-sidering their conception, the results of these two births will harmonize to a great degree, and under the name of the Nationals, which is an organization, has formulated platforms, and does seek to accomplish some definite although ephemeral and demagogical object, the country will feel the influence of its fleeting power. pected a preliminary examination of the case would be held.

Once in the court-room the deeply-wronged and much-to-be-sympathized with loser of the fruit asked some questions of the prisoner (who was still bound hand and foot), the prisoner making no reply, the outraged scion of chivalry while laboring under a fit of temporary insanity (as is claimed by his friends) drew his revolver, placed it at the prisoner's head and fired, the ball outering the neck.

The shooting attracted general attention to the court-house, and in a few moments the room where the "nigger" was lying (supposed to be dead) was crowded, and the "nigger" being disposed of it was decided to hold a Democratic caucus or convention, having for its object it was stated of selecting delegates to the county and district convention; after a nemg disposed of it was decided to hold a Democratic caucus or convention, having for its object (it was stated) of selecting delegates to the county and district convention; after a wrangle of several hours the convention adjourned.

A learned justice of the peace being present, it was decided to "finish the nigger," if he wasn't dead. He was dragged from the corner and, though covered with blood and in an almost dying condition, he was addressed by the j. p. as follows: "We don't want to pronounce sentence without first having given you a chance to prove your innocease." Oh, what magnanimity!

They were actually willing he should prove his innoceance before he had been proven guilty, for the very good reason they well knew it would be as difficult for the poor negro to prove his innoceance as for them to prove his guilt. After this farce the negro was held in default of $2,000 bond. Up to this writing I have heard nothing of any notice having been taken of the shooting of the bound prisoner while in the contr-room awaiting trial, in the custody of the officers of the law. But, sir, what is very significant, the man who committed this diabolical act was the uext day nominated on the Democratic ticket to represent Morgan County in the Alabama Legislature. The norgo is ledged in the county jail, and will probably recover from his wounds.

Mr. Editor, what opinion can civilization form of a community which, instead of protesting against such diabolical act, makes haste to reward the perpetratory. This is only one of scores of such cases constantly occurring all over the South, and, as we are just entering the fail campaign, it is expected to have the decired effect on the colored viter.
